

all jobs are important to SOCIETY

All of the jobs in the four Career Clusters make important, yet different, contributions to our society. For example, postal workers are important to society because their work allows people to communicate and to exchange goods. Try to imagine what society would be like without postal workers. What about firefighters? Think for a minute what society would be like without them!

Using the job title lists (pages 18-21), pick two jobs for each of the four career clusters. Next to each job, explain its importance to society.
