

identify your work VALUES

Many students don't realize that being happy and successful at a career takes much more than liking the job duties and completing them on time. Many other factors play into making jobs something people look forward to doing. These factors, which differ from person to person, combine to form your work values or the things you feel are important in a career.

1. Rank the job factors in the list below according to how important they each are to you.

V = Very important

I = Important
